++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Northeast rather dull on Friday. Brighter in west. Isolated showers.

Today:
A cloudy day with some patchy drizzle or light rain in the north and east, perhaps some heavy showers towards the Cairngorms. Drier and brighter in the west with some sunny intervals likely to break through in the afternoon. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Mostly cloudy, some drizzle in northeast and the odd heavier shower in Badenoch. Some clear intervals along the west coast. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Saturday:
The Isles and the west coast mainly dry and quite bright. Northeast Highland cloudy, patchy coastal haar. Inland bright and warm but scattered thundery downpours developing. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Showers breaking out on Sunday and Monday, heavy and thundery, although the west coast and Isles will escape most. Quite warm in the sunnier spells. Mainly dry on Tuesday.
